

My name is Kaili Easton and I am a senior at Lakewood Ranch high school. I am the Editor of "Mustangs Ahead," and I hope to one day attend the University of Tampa to study journalism further. The thing I love most about news reporting is that it isn't a desk job, you are out in the field getting pictures, interviews, information, and anything else that you can possibly find to write an amazing story. I love the writing process and hope to encourage the newer members of "Mustangs Ahead" to work this program to their best advantage. I really like that LRHS gives us so much liberty to be so independent and cover what we think would make good stories or what we think the students, faculty, and parents want to read. The teachers at LRHS aren't your typical teachers, they are so engaged and really care about how their students are doing not just in school but in their lives off of campus. A goal that I have for graduation is to maintain a 3.5 GPA or higher and to be accepted into the journalism program at UT.
